

GRADUATE PROGRAM in COMMUNICATION

CHOOSE YOUR OWN AMAZING.

YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE PRACTICALLY AMAZING.

As communication scholars, our knowledge base and curiosities are practical, rooted in the everyday messages, interactions, relationships, organizations, and societies that shape our world. Our research, skills, and experiences are amazing, changing the world around us for the better. In the Brian Lamb School of Communication, we take seriously our call to develop the next generation of practically amazing communication scholars and problem-solvers.

THERE'S NOT JUST ONE KIND OF COMMUNICATION PROBLEM IN THE WORLD, NOR IS THERE ONLY ONE COMMUNICATION SOLUTION.

In the Brian Lamb School of Communication, we believe that the ways in which we prepare to be the communication problem-solvers should be as diverse as the challenges we face. That's why we offer you a number of ways to tailor your graduate degree in the Lamb School.

A PROGRAM OF DISTINCTION

With our world-class faculty, the Lamb School offers tailored on-campus M.A., M.S. and Ph.D. programs that fit each graduate student's academic interests and professional goals with concentrations in Health Communication, Interpersonal Communication, Organizational Communication, Public Relations, and Media, Technology, and Society.

You'll work with your advisor to customize your plan of study and research in many different ways. From a wide range of research methods courses and support to research opportunities across the world; from global study abroad opportunities, to interdisciplinary partnerships a little closer to home on our West Lafayette campus; and from broad discipline survey seminars to niche topics, in the Lamb School you're not bound by a prescribed degree completion track. Our dedicated faculty will work closely with you to develop a path to graduation that will prepare you to address vital communication challenges head-on.

ON YOUR ROAD TO PRACTICALLY AMAZING, CHOOSE YOUR OWN AMAZING.

Purdue University, a top public research institution, has been offering higher education at its highest proven value since 1869 and, for more than 100 years, has been building a legacy of excellence in communication studies and research with a commitment to student success. Join our century-plus legacy of world-changing communication scholarship and choose your own amazing.

CUSTOMIZABLE

You'll work strategically with your advisor to craft a plan of study that helps you carve out your niche of expertise. Make your degree fit your career goals, not the other way around.

FULLY-FUNDED

With competitive stipends, we fully fund our on-campus graduate students with assistantships and fellowships for up to two years for Master's students and four years for PhD students.

UNBOUNDED

Our many opportunities for additional research and travel funding allow our students to pursue interdisciplinary work across campus and intercultural work across the globe.

CHOOSE YOUR OWN AMAZING.

Your drive and curiosity will change the world. A graduate degree from the Lamb School will help you on the way. Contact us today to chart your course to amazing.

CONTACT

765-494-3429

gradcom@purdue.edu
www.cla.purdue.edu/communication/graduate

Instagram and Twitter: @LambSchool
Facebook: @LambSchoolPurdue

Brian Lamb School of Communication
Beering Hall of Liberal Arts and Education, Room 2114
100 N. University Street
West Lafayette, IN 47907-2098