Twitch Research Assistants

A research team in the Brian Lamb School of Communication is looking for two students to help conduct a research project studying the livestreaming website Twitch.

The students will watch and record information about Twitch broadcasts. Each hired student will earn $12 per hour for a maximum of 60 hours of work over the summer of 2020.

Requirements:

- Ability to maintain a regular schedule during summer (with some flexibility)
- Ability to meet virtually (synchronously) a few times during the summer
- Access to a computer with high-quality internet access
- Microsoft Office software

Preferred qualities:

- Familiarity with internet culture and Twitch
- Completed a research methods (or similar) course

Interested students should email Courteney Smith (smit3895@purdue.edu) with a résumé. Questions can be directed to Courteney Smith or Brett Sherrick (sherrick@purdue.edu).

Deadline: Friday, May 1
